A Word of Explanation

This PRICE LIST is designed primarily for those flower lovers who appreciate the beauty and adaptability of Gladiolus and are interested chiefly in its decorative uses. From the several hundred varieties that grow in my field, I have selected those that have proven most satisfactory for use in the home and are held in highest esteem by popular acclaim for landscaping of yard or garden and for exhibition. Ninety per cent of the prize winning varieties in any Gladiolus Show will be found listed in this booklet.

Prices are in keeping with the times and are in line with those of other reputable growers. In case of any material variation, I will gladly adjust my prices for the benefit of my customers. Never before has it been possible to purchase regal beauty at the prices herein quoted. Quality is guaranteed. Bulbs are free of disease, true to name and graded to standard size.

Only blooming size bulbs are listed. To prolong the length of time of bloom, it is advisable to plant different sized bulbs of a variety rather than to make successional plantings. With most varieties it takes from ten to fifteen days longer to bring a No. 3 bulb into bloom than a No. 1.

Prices on planting stock, Nos. 4-5-6, and bulblets will be furnished on request. I do not recommend the planting of small sized bulbs for cut flower purposes.

In listing of the varieties, there are given in order:

The name of the variety.

The originator.

The type of the variety, whether it is

G. (Grandiflorus)

P. (Primulinus)

P. G. (Primulinus Grandiflorus)

Approximate blooming date.

The dates are approximate for large size bulbs planted in the month of May and grown under normal conditions.

Ridgway's color description.

A short comment compiled from field notes.

Suggestions for Use

The decorative value of the Gladiolus for general use is just coming into recognition. The tendency among growers has been to emphasize size to the sacrifice of delicate color and grace of stem. This has served to confuse rather than help the average gardener.

For those who do not grow for exhibition purposes solely, there are many varieties that are apt to be overlooked, which if from well-grown stock will give pleasure in their beauty and dependability.

After years of neglect the primis are coming into their own and the charm of their graceful stems, delicate color and daintily poised florets is universally appreciated.

The small gardener who has room for only a few glads will be especially interested in the endless possibilities of their combinations with other flowers and with foliage greens of various types.

Interesting suggestions will be found in the following lists which have been compiled from wide experience in handling many types and varieties.

FOR GENERAL CUT FLOWER USE

PINK. Carolus Clusius, Giant Nymph, Gloriana, Jenny Lind, Jewell, Longfellow, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Dr. Norton, Mrs. P. W. Sisson, Pearl of California, Sheila, Sweet Rose, W. H. Phipps.
